

Macleod Delegates to Irrigation Convention

By this time most of our readers are aware of the meeting that took place in Lethbridge on Wednesday last to discuss the problem created by the conditions in Southern Alberta caused by wind and cut worms. There was a good delegation from Macleod, consisting of R. Lantinga, who took the delegation over in his car; Rev. W. A. Lewis, Hugh Mackintosh, Archie McFadden and W. H. Shields. The meeting was held in the Colonial Theatre and was composed of representatives, over 400 in number, from a very wide area. It was expected and hoped that the premier would be there, but he could not be present. However, the government was represented by the Hon. C. R. Mitchell, and Mr. Geo. Hoadley, leader of the opposition, was also present and addressed the meeting. The case for the farmers was presented by several able speakers, particularly by L. H. Jellif, of Raley and Spring Coulee, who said that if the present government was not able to help them they would not rest content until they had a government that could, which remark called forth loud and long cheers. The chairman, Mr. J. H. Marnoch, in calling up on Hon. C. R. Mitchell to speak, reminded the audience that this was not a political meeting—they were not there to discuss politics. "We are here on serious business," said he, "and this meeting has come because of the recent wind storms, and it is doubtful if it would have been called had it not been for them."

In his address to the meeting Mr. Mitchell stated the Dominion Government was equally responsible with the Provincial Government and the Provincial Government has gone as far and had done all that the legislature would allow it to do. However, said Mr. Mitchell, the Provincial Government had reopened negotiations with Ottawa for the financing of the Lethbridge Northern project and he was hopeful of something being done.

Mr. Geo. Hoadley, M.L.A., leader of the opposition, was of the opinion that something could yet be done by the Provincial Government even if it necessitated the calling of a special session of the legislature. In talking with the Macleod representative, The Macleod Times gathered that the farmers went away from that meeting very unsatisfied, they felt that there was too much "playing politics" rather than a desire to arrive at a satisfactory solution of the problem, and from the press comments upon the meeting both in Calgary and Edmonton it is apparent that the fears of the farmers are but too well grounded. The Calgary Albertan accused Mr. Marnoch of trying to "stampede" the premier and while the Herald expresses its sympathy with the farmers, it cannot refrain from making a slap at its political opponents. The fact of the matter is that the question should not be dragged into the political arena at all. It is not a question for politicians to discuss. The whole situation is one that calls for sympathetic and practical statesmanship. As we have said before these men on those wind driven farms are not asking for charity—every one of them will ultimately pay back every cent of money invested in irrigation if only they can get a chance to do something practicable to help themselves out of their present

Longfellow's Poem Is Artistically Pictureized

Longfellow's immortal poem, "Evangeline," has been wonderfully humanized upon the screen by William Fox. The sublime and tragic love story told so beautifully in the poet's word pictures, is translated into a photoplay with remarkable fidelity. The result is it remains faithful to one's own conception. Such treatment is important in a work of this character. It makes the subject vital, truthful and lifelike. Raoul Walsh is a director who can draw a canvas with the utmost appreciation of the author. As drama goes it carries no appeal. But that is not important. What is important is the spark of the poem which is caught and carried onward—the spark, the inspiration of his beautiful song of faith and love. The picture introduces a prologue which reveals a lover's quarrel. And the poem is read and visualized to point an object lesson in faith and devotion. And the spectator is drawn to the canvas and follows the lovers with the keenest sympathy from the time they plight their troth only to be torn apart, to the day in a far-off land when they meet in the autumn of their lives.

Excerpts from the poem are used in the subtitles and they contribute in giving it beauty. It is spectacular and rich in atmosphere. And acted with fine understanding and feeling by Miriam Cooper as Evangeline, and Albert Roscoe as Gabriel. Some of their scenes are heartrending, and a deep running note of pathos is felt throughout the visualized reading. Length, 6 reels.—Laurence Reid.

At the Empress Monday and Tuesday, July 5 and 6.

Old Timer Dies at Blairmore

There passed away on Saturday, at Blairmore, one of the very early settlers in Macleod, in the person of Mr. H. Alie, at the age of seventy-seven. Mr. Alie was the first baker in Macleod and for many years lived in the house now occupied by Mr. Tanner. After selling his business to Mr. Tanner he removed to Blairmore, about 15 years ago, where he has resided ever since. Owing to failing health he relinquished his business five years ago; and during his long residence in Blairmore he was highly respected by all who knew him.

The funeral took place at the Catholic Cemetery on Sunday, conducted by Rev. Father Cosman.

The irrigation district has been formed, the farmers have expressed their willingness to pay for the water, then why in the name of common sense cannot the government, provincial or dominion, get behind these people instead of wrangling with one another as to who should shoulder the responsibility of providing the money.

If the irrigation project is not immediately proceeded with the farmers warned the provincial government of the consequences and whether we sympathize with their attitude or not, we are convinced that they meant what they said.

Popular High School Teacher Leaves Macleod

Miss S. Kydd, B.A., who has been teaching in the Macleod High School for the past two years, has resigned from the school and left on Wednesday for Lethbridge. During her stay in Macleod Miss Kydd has done good work in the High School and the pupils under her care have reached a high state of proficiency. Miss Kydd has also interested herself in the intellectual and social life of the town, as a member of the Fortnightly Club and when the C.G.I.T. movement was started she identified herself with the work and was the first leader of this work among the girls, most of whom were pupils at the High School.

Miss Kydd will go to Edmonton where she will be engaged in marking examination papers under the Department of Education and from there she expects to return to her home in Saskatchewan.

Town Meets Finance Commission

Following the visit to Macleod of H. M. E. Evans, of the Municipal Finance Commission, a meeting was called in Calgary, when Mayor Fawcett, together with Councillor Morris and Sec'y-Treas. E. Forster Brown, met the other members of the commission and discussed with them the financial situation in Macleod. The bondholders were also represented at the meeting by C. F. P. Conybeare, K.C., of Lethbridge, and E. G. Long, secretary of the Canadian Bond Dealers Association.

The bond dealers at first demanded that the tax rate for the town of Macleod should be 75 mills on the dollar, but the town urged that this rate was prohibitive and could not be collected and were able to satisfy the commission that a lower rate would yield as much money if not more than a higher rate would yield under present conditions. Finally after they had made a thorough investigation of the town's assets, and of the estimates for the current year, the commissioners were satisfied that 66 mill rate was all that could be reasonably enforced this year. They did not think it desirable to raise the rate to such a figure that those who were the most anxious to clear the town of its burden would find the burden too heavy.

Some time ago the mayor and council met V. Brown, western superintendent of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and the situation was thoroughly discussed. Mr. Brown has since expressed the opinion which he still maintains, that the town should levy a rate of 70 mills, and the matter for the present stands in this position. Against the higher rate it is argued that there is a point at which the camel's back must break, and the council is unwilling to risk a rate of more than 66 cents, feeling that their knowledge of local conditions is most reliable, and believing that the levying of this rate will prove in the best interests of the town, as well as of the bondholders and of the bank.

Taking Pictures From the Air

On Saturday last Macleod was visited by the aeroplane belonging to the Lethbridge Aircraft Co., Ltd., in charge of Capt. Palmer and Lieut. Fitzsimmons. Their main object was to take a series of aero-photographs of the intake of the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation Canal. They took about 18 photographs of the site of the intake and of the country through which the main canal passes. Whilst in Macleod they took up a few passengers for flights and left on Monday morning for Pincher Creek.

They have with them the smallest air pilot in the world, in the person of Mr. Geoffrey Barrington, who hails from Limerick, Ireland, and who is only 4 feet 4 inches high. We understand that the aeroplane has been engaged for the second day of the Macleod Fair.

Lieut. Fitzsimmons is well known in Macleod, especially among the railroad men, as he was for some time employed as a conductor on the Macleod division of the C.P.R.

G. W. V. A. Sports

Don't forget the G.W.V.A. Sports today, the committee have been hard at work in their efforts to give everybody a good time. They have secured a splendid collection of war souvenirs and have arranged a program of sports, races and games that will appeal to old and young.

Noted Canadian Author to Visit Macleod

Port Arthur has a very interesting and influential visitor in Mrs. Nellie McClung. The author of "Sowing Seeds in Danny" has won a double fame as a writer and speaker. Other Canadian women have written popular books, but Mrs. McClung is unique as a campaigner.

The Canadian West is proud of Mrs. McClung as typical of its best qualities. She has its breeziness, courage and optimism, with a piquant touch of the unconventional in her mode of speaking. She hits straight from the shoulder, and has a punch that any orator of the other sex may envy.—Port Arthur Chronicle.

Mrs. McClung will deliver an address on "The Building of a Nation," at the Methodist Church, Macleod, on Wednesday, July 7, at 8 p.m. Admission, 25c.

Distribution of Seed Rye

EDMONTON, June 25.—A staff of men will be put on by the department of agriculture to handle the work of distributing supplies of rye seed through those parts of Southern Alberta that were affected by the recent wind storms. Work will be commenced on this distribution at the first of July.

It is estimated that between 50,000 and 60,000 bushels of seed will be required to meet the needs of farmers desirous of putting in a rye crop. The available supply in the province is thought to be about 20,000 bushels and the balance will be secured by the government through the Dominion seed branch. Should a shortage occur, the distribution will be made as fairly as possible and as long as the supply holds out.

H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture is back from a tour of inspection through the south country in the course of which he covered the country from Calgary to Lethbridge, Macleod to Taber, the Magrath and Raymond districts, Vulcan, Gleichen and along the Goose Lake, Lacombe and Wetaskiwin lines of railway.

As a result of his investigations Mr. Craig states that the area affected is small in comparison to the total crop area, but that in places heavy damage has been done, cutworms have been at work in some districts, and grasshoppers also are appearing. As yet, however, the hoppers have done no material damage and prompt steps have been taken to deal with them if they become troublesome. Under R. Lawton, of the game guardian branch, a staff of men is now distributing poisoned bait to farmers in the south, and explaining to them how it should be used.

Crop reports from the entire province, as summed up by Mr. Craig, are to the effect that the crops, while somewhat later than usual, are showing a good stand and are of good color. There is abundant moisture in most places, and only a little more heat is desired to bring the crops along.

Southern farmers, while in some cases badly hit by the wind and sand storms, were found by Mr. Craig to be favorably disposed toward the rye crop idea, and full advantage is likely to be taken of the government's relief scheme. The seed supplies will be given out on the same terms as the wheat and oats in the spring.—Calgary Herald.

Town Council in Session

There was a meeting of the Town Council in the Town Office on Monday night. The meeting was held in place of the one that should have been held the week before, when the mayor and final committee were in Calgary. Only routine business was transacted and the council adjourned to meet at the next regular meeting to be held on Monday, July 5th.

Orangemen to Meet

An invitation has been sent out by the High River Orangemen to local lodgers to attend a celebration to be held in High River on July 12.

There will be a monster parade, a program of races, games and sports, and speeches by several prominent members of the order.

Don't fail to read the Hudson's Bay Company's double page advertisement on page 4 and 5 of this issue—Big July Clearance Sale at sacrifice prices in all departments to clear out goods prior to stock-taking.

Machinery Arrives for Saw Mill

A large quantity of machinery has arrived for the construction of the saw mill, consisting of dredging and pile driving machinery, and about a car and a half of lumber has been hauled down to the site and it is expected that there will be a gang of carpenters at work this week building scows for dredging. It is estimated that in all there will be about 200 cars of cement used in the dams and in other construction work, and that the mill site is likely to become a hive of industry this summer. As all the lumber used is handled through the local yards the manager is kept pretty busy these days.

Cemetery Pump

The Town Council recently went to the trouble and expense of having the pump in the cemetery put into repair so that water could be obtained for use on the graves, but the other day a report came into the Town Office that the pump was again out of commission, some one having broken it again. We can hardly think that this was wilfully done, but was the result of rough usage on the part of some mischievous boys. We are, however, informed that if any person is found guilty of such wanton mischief he will be severely dealt with.

Beautiful and Dramatic Moments

IN A BEAUTIFUL PHOTOPLAY

When the first glimpse is given of the "forest primeval, the murmuring pines and the hemlocks."

When the little village of Grand-Pre is screened.

When the little children pause in their play as the parish priest comes solemnly down the street.

When Evangeline is first seen—"when she had passed it seemed like the ceasing of exquisite music."

When Evangeline and Gabriel plight their troth.

When the royal governor, Charles Lawrence, without authority from the king, decides to deport all Acadians.

When Evangeline, surrounded by pretty village maidens, decks herself for the wedding.

When the arrival of soldiery checks the gaiety of the Acadians assembled for the wedding.

When the colonel reads the decree of exile for every man, woman and child in Acadie.

When Father Pelician counsels against resistance.

When Evangeline and Gabriel are separated as the actual deportation begins.

When the village of Grand-Pre is burned.

When, without bell or book, they bury the father of Evangeline on the beach.

When Gabriel and his father find prosperity in the southern Savannas.

When Evangeline, ever-seeking journeys here and there with other exiles in a never-faltering search for Gabriel.

When Evangeline speaks with those who have seen her beloved.

When Evangeline refuses all suitors, saying "Whither my heart has gone, there follows my hand, and not elsewhere."

When Gabriel steals away from his Louisiana home to stifle his heartbreak.

When Gabriel, in a canoe, passes unknowingly Evangeline as she sleeps on shore; "angel of God there was none to awaken the slumbering maiden."

When Gabriel and emigrants in the wagon train are attacked by Indians.

When Evangeline becomes a Sister of Mercy.

When Evangeline and Gabriel at last are re-united in a pestilence hospital.

75 Millions For Cottons In London

Between the White and Blue Nile in the Soudan, one of the biggest irrigation undertakings in the world will shortly be launched, according to Rev. H. B. Rivington of Khartoum, chaplain of the British residents of that famous city of romance, who arrived in Calgary last evening. The irrigation works when completed will cost between 10 and 15 million pounds sterling, a figure greatly exceeding the cost of any scheme carried out or contemplated in this country, and six million pounds have already been subscribed, principally by the merchants of Manchester, England, the world's "cottonopolis," who hope to obtain from this new source large supplies of cotton for the mills of Lancashire. It will take ten years to complete the project, and the area to be irrigated is as large as the delta of the Nile.

Cotton Dealers on Lookout

For some years past the British Cotton Growing association has been developing new sources of supply within the empire, and as the available export cotton from the United States decreases, gradually, it is anticipated the British Empire will become self-sustaining so far as this raw material is concerned. Already much has been done, since the time when periodic "cornering" of United States cotton made the British manufacturers anxious about their future supply and determined them to stabilize the market for raw material. The Egyptian cotton export has steadily increased and within a few years the vast African hinterland forever associated in the minds of the British with Gordon and Kitchener and the struggle for the overthrow of the Mahdi's power, will be a land of cottonfields under peaceful agricultural enterprise.

"The natives are happy under British rule," Mr. Rivington said last evening in conversation with The Albertan at the Palliser hotel. "There are occasional tribal disturbances but the political troubles of Egypt are unknown in the Soudan, where Egyptians themselves are regarded by the native population as 'foreigners.' The population is mainly Arab and Negro, the Egyptians making a third race represented in considerable numbers. There are about 1500 British residents, mainly engaged in administrative work."

Disadvantages of Railways

"The various native races do not love one another," said Mr. Rivington. "The feeling that exists toward the Egyptians was well illustrated in the examination of two students at Gordon college, on the subject of 'The advantages and disadvantages of railways.' The first student, an Egyptian youth, did not say anything about the disadvantages. The second, a Sudanese, cited as one of the disadvantages that 'railways brought Egyptians up into the Soudan.'"

Mr. Rivington, whose diocese is presided over by Bishop Gwynne, well-known during the war as deputy chaplain general of the British forces, has been spending furlough in England after 14 years service in the Soudan. He is paying a visit to Canada and the United States before returning to duty. Mr. Rivington is accompanied by Mrs. Rivington.—Albertan.

AT THE EMPRESS NEXT WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

Genuine Goldwyn Success Filled with Real Suspense

This Pauline Frederick contribution to the Goldwyn program may safely be called a success. It is a well-developed melodrama, hardly ever going to extremes. For one thing it holds the attention; for another, as the outcome of the story cannot be guessed in advance, it holds the spectator in suspense.

The story deals with the heroine, who marries, not knowing the man is a notorious crook. Chased while on a job, the heroine's husband runs to the house, which is surrounded by the police; but rather than surrender he shoots and kills himself. The heroine is falsely accused by one of the confederates as having murdered her husband, but is acquitted by the jury for lack of evidence. In the course of the story she marries again, a wealthy man. Her services are now used by a government agent in tracing a Bolshevik who is trying to spread the doctrines in this country. Her queer actions arouse the suspicions of her husband, but, in the end, everything is explained to him satisfactorily.

There are no repulsive features in the picture, and as it is free from suggestiveness, it should have a wide appeal.—Released Feb. 23.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

St. Paul's Mission Field Day

The ninth Annual Field day of the Cadet Corps connected with the Anglican Mission on the Blood and Peigan Reserves, was held at Brocket on Thursday, June 24th. In the morning there was an inspection by Mayor Miller, of Calgary, at the close of the inspection Mayor Miller congratulated the O.C., Rev. S. Middleton upon the splendid appearance of the corps and of the school. He said that he was not quite sure just where the corp would stand when he came to make his final report, but he assured Mr. Middleton that St. Paul's Corp would be among the first 6 out of 55 schools in the province.

The afternoon was given over to sports and games, and in the counting of points the St. Paul's School won out over the Peigan Schools. This entitled the St. Paul's School to the "Mrs. Middleton Challenge Cup," a cup presented by Mrs. (Rev.) S. Middleton to be competed for by the pupils of each school each year. There was also an exhibition samples of work in penmanship, which reflects great credit to both scholars and teachers, and which would compare very favorably with any exhibit of any white school, and the principal of the school, Rev. S. Middleton, is to be congratulated upon the splendid work he is doing in the interests of the children on these two reserves.

Hospital Meeting at Claresholm

According to reports that have reached us concerning the hospital meeting at Claresholm on Tuesday evening, the attitude of the citizens of our neighboring town reflects no great credit to them, and to say the least it was most undignified. Claresholm apparently is willing to allow local prejudice to blind their eyes to interests of the people they profess to serve.

Baseball News

An organization meeting of the Macleod Baseball Club was held on Wednesday, June 23. The following officers were elected: Hon. Presidents, Dr. Kirk, Rev. Kennedy and J. W. McDonald; President, Mayor Fawcett; Vice-President, A. W. Bawden; Manager, J. Marks; Secretary-Treasurer, A. Watson.

It was then decided that the Secretary-Treasurer give an itemized statement of the club's standing. The report reads as follows:

Receipts—
Total collections to date ..... $71.75
Expenditures—
Lumber and nails ..... $15.50
Sundries, including baseballs,
1 bat and socks for diamond 29.45
Cash on hand ..... 26.80

$71.75
There is yet the wire for the backstop and the one strand around the posts to be paid for.
A. Watson, Sec'y-Treas.

On Monday evening last the local boys took Orton into camp by the score of 17 to 4. During the first few innings the visitors looked promising, but as the game proceeded the locals demonstrated their superiority. Other games are being arranged with Claresholm, Blairmore, Nobleford, Cowley, Coalhurst and Nanton. These games will be played in the near future.

SOUTH MACLEOD CHURCH NEWS

Commencing Sunday next, July 4th, the services on the South Macleod Mission will be held as follows:
Allenfield School House, 2:30 p.m.; Waterton School House, 4 p.m. There will also be a service on Sunday next in the Hazelmere School at 7:30 in the evening.

Corn, Tomato, String-Bean Combination

Use 1 part of corn, 1 part of green string beans, and 3 parts of tomatoes. Blanch fresh corn on the cob for 5 minutes and cold-dip. Cut the corn from the cob, cutting from tip to butt. Prepare string beans and cut them into convenient lengths. Blanch the tomatoes 1 to 3 minutes and cold-dip. Remove skin and core. Cut tomatoes into medium-sized pieces. Mix thoroughly. Pack in hot glass jars. Put on rubbers and caps, not tight. Sterilize 120 minutes.

Granum Discusses Hospital

There was a conference held in Macleod on Monday between representatives of the village and district of Granum and some of the members of the Hospital Board and some of the members of the Town Council to discuss matters pertaining to the formation of the proposed hospital district. There was a full and frank discussion of the whole situation, and much was done to clear away a deal of misunderstanding. What will be the result it is not possible to say but all parties felt that the situation was much improved and that everybody understood each other and each other's position much better than they did before the meeting. The Granum deputation left in the evening for Claresholm, where a meeting was to be held to discuss the proposition as far as Claresholm is concerned.

McBride Lake News

The school house was the scene of a very pleasant dance on Friday night, given in honor of Miss McNab, the teacher, who is leaving. The dance was well patronized by the surrounding districts and also a few friends from town. The Allenfields Orchestra furnished excellent music with eight pieces. Much credit is due to Mr. Edgar, the leader, for the progress this orchestra has made in such a short time. Supper was served about half past twelve and dancing broke up about 3 a.m., everyone being pleased with a very enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Torrie intend spending their holidays at the ranch, with Mrs. Torrie's father, Mr. Hiram Bates.

Mr. A. J. McGowan moved his furniture and family out to his ranch on Saturday. Mr. McGowan is taking the school for the coming term.

Crops in this district are needing rain badly, but in some cases are looking fairly well, considering the cool weather.

Mr. Alex Paterson moved his barns last week.

Mr. J. Evans intends going north next week, to bring back his cattle which were sent there last fall.

Laurence Storey, of the Bank of Montreal, Lethbridge, returned to that city on Saturday night, after a two week's holiday at his home here.

The McBride Lake Sunday School has started up again for the summer.

A nephew of Mr. George Butters arrived from Ontario last week to spend a few weeks at Mr. Butters' ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Johnson and Mrs. Hub Moore motored to Waterton Lakes on Friday morning.

Civil war may come in Ireland at any minute. The revolutionists seem determined to force the issue no matter at what cost. The government can do no less than accept the gauge of battle. It is a miserable situation all round, but there appears to be no other solution of it than to fight it out.

G. H. SCOUGALL
MACLEOD — ALTA.

Mrs. J. A. Osborne, of High River, has an interesting story to tell of one of her brooding hens that adopted a family of little pups this spring. At nightfall when it's "time to go to bed," the mother hen clucks and clucks, and immediately the little pups gather under the protecting wings of their kindly disposed adopted mother and remain there for the night. A snapshot has been taken of the hen and pups which bears out the truth of this story.

Continuance of Wheat Board

According to a resolution placed on the table in the House of Commons, Ottawa, in the name of the Minister of Trade and Commerce, provision is made for the continuance of the Wheat Board, such board to consist of not more than 12 members, including chairman and vice-chairman.

The board may make such inquiries and investigation as it deems necessary to ascertain what supplies of wheat are, or may be, available from time to time, the location and ownership of same, the transportation and elevator facilities, available in connection therewith, as well as all conditions connected with the marketing and market price that can be obtained for the same. For the purpose of any inquiry or investigation held by the board the several members thereof shall have all the powers of a commissioner acting under part one of the Inquiries act.

Schedule of Powers
 In the schedule of powers the board is given authority similar to that at present enjoyed as regards purchase, storage and transport of wheat, and to sell wheat, in excess of domestic requirements to purchasers overseas for such prices as may be obtainable. The resolution gives the board authority to fix maximum prices or margins of profit at which flour and other products may be sold by millers and to fix standards of quality for such products.

It may purchase flour from millers at prices to be fixed by the board and sell the same in Canada and other countries. For the purpose of performing its duties the board may allocate Canadian lake tonnage and distribute cars for rail shipments.

Issue of participation certificates and payment of advances is provided for in the resolution as also is the distribution pro rata after sale of all wheat and deduction of administration expenses.

May Assign Powers
 The board is given power from time to time to appoint an executive committee of not less than three of its members of whom the chairman will be one, and may assign to such executive committee any duties or powers which is within the competence of the board.

It is provided that there shall not be provided on any grain exchange of elsewhere facilities for trading in wheat futures during the time the act based upon the resolutions is in force, except by permission in writing of the board.

Notwithstanding any order-in-council heretofore passed the board of grain supervisors of Canada shall not exercise any power inconsistent with the powers vested in the Canadian wheat board by the proposed legislation.

The proposed act shall continue in force until the day immediately succeeding the day of prorogation of the next session of parliament.

Manitoba Election Results

According to the latest returns to hand the Manitoba Elections result in a greatly reduced majority for the Morris administration. This result is attributed to the large foreign vote of the province, which is not in sympathy with the government's educational policy.

Even if the government wins the 8 seats in Winnipeg, which is not likely, they cannot carry on without the support of one of the other parties. The Conservatives had candidates running in 29 seats, yet of these they were only successful in gaining 6.

The official figures to date are as follows:

Liberals ..... 18
 Conservatives ..... 6
 Farmers ..... 8
 Independents ..... 5
 Deferred elections ..... 2

With 8 seats to hear from in Winnipeg, A. E. Smith, formerly a Methodist Minister, was elected in Brandon on the labor ticket.

Stamped the Premier

The Morning Albertan has a great deal to say these days about Mr. Marnoch, of Lethbridge, "shaking his fist" in the face of the premier and "stamping the government" on the question of irrigation, and it speaks as if the blown out areas are making altogether too much noise about their troubles which are not as serious as they are made out to be.

Perhaps viewed from a comfortable editor's chair in a quiet and shady nook in the city of Calgary the distress of the blown out farmer may not amount to much and the editor of the Albertan, in accord with the official of the government who told these poor farmers the other day that the blown-out area does not amount to a "hill of beans anyway," but if a hurricane was to strike the city of Calgary one of these days and hit the office of the Albertan, wrecking not only the building and the machinery, but destroying the efforts and labors of years, and if the editor was convinced that the government could adopt measures that would prevent a recurrence of the catastrophe and took no steps to do so, but indifferently left him to his fate, we venture to prophesy that he, too, would do some fist shaking, and make some effort to "stampede" somebody into action.

The farmers in the area affected have been called upon to endure that which will try the mettle of the hardest of men. The long, hot, dry summer of last year, following the dry season of 1918, left them not a spear of grain or a blade of grass for the winter. Then came a winter the like of which has seldom been seen in this southern country, when many farmers travelled literally thousands of miles through snow and cold in order to keep his stock alive, pledging all he had to pay for feed, and when in the spring he had sown his fields with seed paid for with borrowed money he saw this seed blown out of the ground and the field left barren and waste, is an experience that enters into men's souls—and is no topic for cheap and indifferent criticism on the part of those who view the situation from a safe distance.

Added to the burden of a bitter experience is the feeling on the part of many that the one thing that will provide a sure remedy against a recurrence of these conditions is being denied them by the government and that the question of irrigation is being made the shuttlecock battled about between Edmonton and Ottawa.

It is no wonder some body does a little "fist shaking" and endeavors to "stampede" some one into action. The situation is serious and immediate action is urgent and that is why the affected farmers have been making their voice heard so long and so loud. The suffering farmers are like the woman in the parable they hope to get an answer if only "because of their importunity" they "weary" the powers that be.

What this south country is capable of producing under irrigation is fully demonstrated by land already irrigated. It is no costly experiment that the farmers are asking the government to undertake, neither are they asking the government for charity, but what they do ask is the extension of that which has proved a blessing to their neighbors and which will prevent them from being ruined and enable them to establish their homes and families on the land in which they have invested their all.

The Morning Albertan and the Government of Alberta need not think that these farmers will be dismissed by a wave of the hand, or by scolding for they will call louder and longer until their voice is heard or until a government is placed in power that will grant what they feel is their reasonable request.

Short Weight Butter

The act pertaining to weight of butter, in prints, reads in part as follows:

"No person shall manufacture, sell, or have in his possession for sale any butter cut into blocks, prints or squares, that are not of the full net weight of sixteen (16) ounces."

Numerous infractions of this act have resulted in several prosecutions by the Inspector of Dairy Supplies, and more are likely to follow.

Farmers—Your duty is to see that your butter is put up in full sixteen (16) ounces to each print, or you are liable to a very heavy fine and confiscation of your butter wherever it may be found.

Country Merchants—According to the act you are liable to a very heavy fine and confiscation of your butter wherever found if not full sixteen (16) ounces to each print.

You will save yourself trouble by weighing separately each and every print, and refusing to accept butter not good full weight of sixteen (16) ounces.

"Bathing Beauties" at the Empress

Six pretty girls from the California movie studios and Paul Robinson, comedian, drew audiences that packed the Majestic even to standing room last night. There are blondes and brunettes, practically uniform as to size and possess the shapeliness necessary to set off their bathing costumes.

After being introduced on the screen, the young ladies make their appearance in person clad in sporting costumes, in which they give a song and dance and with each song scantier costumes are presented until they reach the bathing suit chorus, when the girls appear in some daring effects.

Paul Robinson, who is ostensibly on the program to fill in while the young ladies are making their changes, quite walks off with his end of the show and was given as much applause as the beauty chorus. The closing number, in which the young women played baseball with the audience, is a big success. At Empress Theatre Thursday, July 8th.

The Spirit of Reaction

It cannot be too strongly emphasized these days that though we have won the war we have yet to win the peace. This emphasis is necessary in the marked tendency of the spirit of reaction at the present time. Having, so to speak, shown exemplary conduct during a period of strain we are apt, now that the tension is over, to relax.

The war brought forth a beautiful spirit of comradeship. It was just the spirit that helped towards winning it. But like the bow that has been unstrung, many of us have gone back to the old spirit of lassitude which breeds selfishness. We are, as a consequence, apt to be taken up too unduly with the trivial things of life. We, perhaps, are not so sympathetic as we might be, and which we showed that we could be when the necessity arose.

It is well for us to know that there still remains for each one of us a duty, which is a duty, just as much as it was during the five years that are past, of winning the peace. That peace has still to be won, and it can only be won by the war-time spirit. There is still the call for the pride in duty, the combing out of our little cliques and exercising ourselves for the public good. There is the same call of proving our worthiness as there was at the time we sensed the need of the same. We have still to live and fight for our country. The individual who fails to give of his best, no matter in what occupation he is engaged, is a shirker today and cannot but be regarded as the shirker was in the time of war. There is still the call for ungrudging service without confining ourselves to our own petty interests. We speak of the blessings of peace, but they have to be striven for. The war time spirit made us consider each one who was fighting and working for the common cause as a comrade. It is only this way of regarding one another that will enable us to combat and conquer what cannot but be regarded as the none too appealing conditions of the present day.—Lethbridge Herald.

Russia a Land of Horror

Bolshevik Russia today is a land of horror"—quoting J. Herbert Duckworth, who has just come out of that sovietized country.

"The people are slowly starving to death," he cables from Reval, "and Bolshevism is slowly decaying."

Duckworth was sent into Russia by the Newspaper Enterprise association of which the Albertan is a member to investigate actual conditions from an unprejudiced viewpoint, with eyes and ears open to both sides, so that he might tell North Americans exactly what Russia has done with this latest government experiment.

Before he went to Russia, Duckworth was inclined toward liberalism in government, leaning toward radicalism, in fact. By that, one may know he was not influenced in his anti-Socialist opinions. Deep down in his heart Duckworth probably had hoped to find a succeeding experiment in government by and for the people, an advanced form of freedom, liberty and happiness. But he found:

"Twenty per cent of the Russian people sick of the experiment."

"There is no liberty, no food, no clothing, no happiness—only misery and starvation."

And again why? He explains: "The Bolsheviks are good destroyers and poor builders."

There you have the secret of the soviet failure. Russia cannot—no country can—have liberty, food, clothing, happiness, through the medium of a government based on division of what has been accumulated, founded upon the doctrine of destruction of what is built upon the sands of no-ambition, no-individual goal, no-private initiative.

Probably, to some, Bolshevism sounded pleasant enough—as a theory of government. In actual working out Duckworth proclaims it "a ghastly nightmare."—Morning Albertan.

More and Better Wheat

At no time in the history of Canada has her wheat fields meant so much to the world as now. Canada produces wheat of the finest grades and in such large quantities as to place the Dominion well up among the wheat producing countries of the world. Both federal and provincial departments of agriculture have done their share in improving wheat varieties and extending the growth of this necessary cereal. An interesting account of the work that has been done is contained in the May number of The Agricultural Gazette, the official organ of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. It is there shown that the most widely grown varieties were developed by Canadian scientists. Preston, Stanley, Huron, Bishop, O.A.C. No. 104, Marquis, Ruby, and Prelude have each their valuable factors. The history and characteristics of each are given. The Seed Branch and the Department assists the Canadian Seed Growers' Association in extending the growth of pedigreed varieties. The Seed Branch itself encourages seed crop competitions and seed fairs, tests seeds for farmers and merchants, inspects seed on sale, and has, through the Canadian Seed Purchasing Commission, ensured supplies of dependable seed wheat during recent years.

Crop and Live Stock Report

The last semi-monthly report was favorable over the whole of the province with respect to moisture, progress of seeding and the improvement in live stock subject to some delay in the Peace River country on account of rains and to the beginning of a little blowing in Southern Alberta. There have been a good many local showers rather widely distributed but there have not been any heavy general rains. The country is not going back from drought but there is required rain in order to keep up the lush growth of crop that has occurred so far.

Soil Blowing

The slight injury to crop from wind reported at the first of the month has increased to a rather unfavorable extent. Statements with regard to soil blowing appearing early in June were rather broad and were apt to lend the reader to the conclusion that soil blowing was general in Southern Alberta. This was a mistake. While the injury that has taken place more recently is serious it should be understood that the injury is still to some degree local. The severe winds funnel through the Crow's Nest Pass following the valley of the Old Man River and sweeping such points as Kipp, Commerce and Monarch, spreading north towards Claresholm, and continue as far as the Bow River, touching such points as Nobleford and points on the Suffield Branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway. A heavy dust storm occurred over this area on the 8th. It is not to be understood that within this area all the crop is injured as moisture conditions in the soil have reduced the injury from wind. On light soil and particularly on summer fallowed land the blowing has been serious and has caused considerable loss. The Noble Foundation with nineteen thousand acres of crop has had eight or nine hundred acres, more or less injured by wind. The effects of blowing are shown at Barons, Ironsprings, Lomond, Travers and Enchant. The Noble Foundation has about four thousand out of its nineteen thousand acres in fall rye which is looking well. This crop promises to serve useful purposes on the lightest of the Southern Alberta soils, besides furnishing good pasture in the fall and spring. It holds the soil in winter and will withstand the strong blows of summer which usually occur in June. Those who have crop blown out this season are now considering the reseeded with rye instead of oats and barley.

With the absence of rains cutworms are working to some extent in the areas spoken of north of Lethbridge and also in fields around Magrath, Raley and Raymond but the injury so far has not been great. Small colonies of grasshoppers have made their appearance but the Provincial and Dominion Departments of Agriculture are co-operating in preparation for them. A number of men of the Provincial Department of Agriculture are on hand and poison supplies are held in readiness at Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and Calgary. To date no actual injury from these has occurred. Outside of the limitations of wind and the appearance of the cutworm, conditions over Southern Alberta are good. Crops along the main line of the C.P.R. are generally good. In the area east and northeast of Calgary occasional patches have been skipped by the rainman but local showers are generally keeping the crop going.

Ten dollars for a trip in an aeroplane with a season's ticket to the hospital thrown in. We have given a subscription for the beautifying of the cemetery. These attractions should be an incentive to flying in the air. If you don't succeed in reaching Heaven, you at least have a chance to penetrate Hell. There are two H's to choose from anyhow, you can't help yourself. It is only beautiful luck that you may probably arrive on this glorious earth again. If the machinery springs a cog letting you down bumpety-bump we will see that you have a touching obituary, an epitaph lauding your values while in our midst. A doctor will be in attendance to see that your mangled remains are laid out gracefully. He will feel your shattered pulse and search for the faint beating of the heart. The stethoscope, microscope and other scopes of the latest scientific discoveries will be used upon your mutilated remains. Camera fiends will hover around your body. ## Attractive Picture at the Empress

In these days, when moving-picture producers give to the public views of the finest scenery in the world, and from all its four corners, a picture has to have very special attractiveness to stand out as something particularly beautiful. Yet this is what has been done in regard to an automobile test trip film which is to be shown at the Empress Theatre two days, commencing July 7th. Canadians may think that they have some rough roads, but the company that sent these cars out to test their riding qualities certainly had wonderful success in finding the prize rough roads of the world. Naturally, they selected the south-western states, where deserts and mountains provide every known variety, and the sagebrush of Arizona, the mountain trails of Southern California afforded the moving-picture operators plenty of scope for thrills.

During their stay in Macleod the pilots of the aeroplane filled up with Queen Gasoline and Polarine "A" oil at the Imperial Oil Co.'s station.

The Tragedy of Acadie

Historical data on which was founded Longfellow's immortal poem, presented as a Superb Motion Picture by William Fox

The following article dealing with Acadie, the land which for years was the bone of contention in North America between the English and French, and the events leading up to the deportation of the French colonists recites historical facts of authenticity now unquestioned.

This article is of special interest to all school and higher educational institutions as well as to historical and research societies.

The material from which the article was compiled was gathered from various sources, including books chief among which are: Prof. Noah Porter's "Evangeline, the Place, the Story and the Poem," D. Luther Roth's "Acadie and Acadians," George Potter's "An Historical Sketch of the Acadians," Felix Voorhies' "Acadian Reminiscences," Eric S. Robinson's "Life of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow," and Hahburton's "History of Nova Scotia."

The history of Acadia, on which is founded Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's immortal poem, "Evangeline"—the superb screen adaptation of which, a William Fox production, will be shown at the Empress Theatre on Mon. and Tues., July 5 and 6, dates back to the discovery of America.

The name Acadie formerly designated not only the entire peninsula now known as Nova Scotia, but also the eastern portion of what is now the province of New Brunswick, together with Prince Edward Island the island of Cape Breton and the adjacent beautiful islands in the gulf of St. Lawrence.

The old question, "Who Discovered America?" is revived by a narration of the stirring international events which culminated in the deportation of the so-called "French neutrals" in 1755. It is claimed on strong authority that one of the Cabots landed on the continent before Columbus. In 1504 French fishermen cast their lines on the fishing banks of Newfoundland. In 1534 Jacques Cartier sailed through the gulf of St. Lawrence. In a second expedition he ascended the St. Lawrence and Saguenay rivers and reached the sites of Quebec and Montreal.

This entire region was claimed during the next year by the French, who gave it the name of Canada. As such, this territory was distinct from Acadie, which had previously been recognized as the territory lying on the Bay of Fundy and the gulf of St. Lawrence.

Refused to Renounce Country
Acadie was first peopled in 1605 by French families under the leadership of Demonts, a Huguenot nobleman, to whom Henry IV. had given the right to plant a colony in New France. The more fertile portions of the island were settled by these few colonists, to whom the land was doubly attractive because of the overflowing fishing grounds.

These grounds stimulated a constant and jealous international rivalry which was intensified by the manifold antagonism of race and religion. Hence these lands of beauty and promise became a dark and bloody ground.

In 1713, after a twenty-year contest, the treaty of Utrecht was concluded. By its terms, all Nova Scotia or Acadia, comprehended within its ancient boundaries, as also the city of Port Royal, now called Annapolis, was yielded to Great Britain. It is worthy of note, in this connection, that the argument over these boundaries was not ended till the capture of Quebec in 1759.

Immediately after the treaty of Utrecht, the inhabitants of the region about the head of the bay were given a year in which to take the oath of allegiance to the English Queen Anne. On one pretext or another, they failed to do so, and so earned the name of "French neutrals."

These neutrals were a simple people, living by farming and fishing and understanding little of the events transpiring in the outside world.

Doomed in British Colony
But the international controversies, far from being settled by the treaty of Utrecht, were intensified during the first half of the eighteenth century, when France and England were engaged from time to time in desperate war for the control of North America.

Acadie at this time was nominally a British province, but its inhabitants were the "French neutrals." Their real sympathies lay with the land of their birth and not with the government under whose protection they lived.

Governor-General Hopson was succeeded by Charles Lawrence who had been lieutenant-governor. Lawrence was a former major of the English army, a man described by his contemporaries as "a keen intelligent unscrupulous, cruel and ambitious man."

In 1755 commissioners in Europe had been trying for some time to settle a satisfactory boundary between New France and Nova Scotia, when matters were brought to a crisis by the French in America, who erected two forts on a neck of land at the head of the bay of Fundy.

An expedition composed of about

1,500 New England troops, mostly Massachusetts men—for this was in Colonial days—was sent to capture the French forts. Colonel Robert Monckton was in command, with a staff of English officers.

Exile Decided Upon

When Fort Beauséjour was captured three hundred of the "French neutrals" were found among the garrison. This incensed Governor-General Lawrence and, entirely without authority from the king, he decided to deport all French Acadians.

While the British officers and men took up quarters at Grand-Pré to await the arrival of the transports which were on their way from Boston the governor took action. A royal commission was prepared authorizing Colonel Winslow to conduct the deportations.

On Tuesday, September 2, 1755, Governor Lawrence issued a proclamation ordering all the male inhabitants, "both young and old men, as well as all the lads of ten years of age," to assemble at the church of Grand-Pré on Friday at three o'clock to learn his majesty's pleasure, "on pain of forfeiting goods and chattels in default of real estate."

On the Friday appointed, September 5, 1755, four hundred and eighteen unmarried men met within the church. The doors were then closed upon them and guarded by soldiers, while the women of Acadie thronged the street of the village with hearts made anxious by these ominous signs.

The Edict of Deportation
The edict was then read to the assembled farmers, it follows:
"Gentlemen, I have received from his excellency, Governor Lawrence, the King's commission, which I have in my hand.

"It is His Majesty's orders, and they are peremptory, that the whole French inhabitants of these districts be removed.

"Your lands and tenements, cattle of all kinds, and live stock of all sorts, are forfeited to the Crown, with all your other effects, saving your money and household goods; and you yourselves are to be removed from this province.

"I shall do everything in my power that your goods be secured to you, and that you are not molested in carrying them off; also that whole families shall go in the same vessel, and that this removal shall be made as easy as His Majesty's service will admit. And I hope that, in whatever part of the world you fall, you may be faithful subjects, a peaceful and happy people.

"Meanwhile you are the King's prisoners, and will remain in security under the inspection and direction of the troops I have the honor to command."

Unbroken silence greeted this cruel edict, until, after a lapse of a few minutes, a groan broke from the stunned Acadians and their cry of grief was echoed in bewilderment by the anxious women waiting with their children outside.

On September 10, 1755, the first group was ordered to embark.

In spite of some show of care on the part of the authorities, many parents were separated from their children and driven into different vessels. Husbands and wives lost each other and maidens were parted from their lovers forever.

The country was laid desolate by the soldiery and the houses and barns of the Acadian farmers were burned to the ground.

The Acadians were put aboard the sailing vessels from day to day until the final embarkation on October 8, 1755.

They were landed at widely scattered points by the vessels. Orders had been given to land 1,000 Acadians in Virginia, 500 in North Carolina, 500 in Maryland, 300 in Philadelphia, 300 in Connecticut, 200 in New York and 200 in Boston. So far as was possible these orders were carried out to the letter.

In after years some of the Acadians found their way back to their fertile valley, but for the most part the exiles were made wanderers on the face of the earth.

Get Best Results From Tractor

Irrespective of the various locations of hitching the tractor plow to the tractor on different makes, made necessary because of the wide variations in tractor design, there can be only one correct hitch location—this applies to the tractor plow as well as the tractor.

On the tractor, the correct position of hitch is midway between the drivers, because at this point the pull is equally divided between the drive wheels.

On the three-bottom tractor plow that cuts 42 inches of land, the correct location is approximately four inches to the right of the landside of the centre bottom, or 24 inches from the furrow wall.

When the centre line of draft on your plow corresponds to the centre of power on your tractor, you have the ideal and correct hitch for satisfactory and economical tractor plowing. The farther you get away from this centre line of draft on either tractor or plow, the greater difficulties you will experience in the operation of your plowing outfit.

Let us see what the effects are on the tractor plowing outfit when the centre line of draft cannot be secured because of the design of the tractor. You can adjust your hitch on the tractor plow beyond its centre line of draft, or to the left sufficiently so that you can still maintain the centre hitch on the tractor. Hitched in this manner you can plow, and in ideal plowing conditions you may not notice any appreciable difference in its operation, but after your plow has seen considerable service, you will find that the wheel bearings need replacing, and the landside is worn out because of the increased pressure on the rear wheel. Worse than this, your plow will pull hard, which results in increased cost for fuel and increased wear on the tractor; in fact the life of your plowing outfit is materially reduced.

In certain soil conditions you will find your plow will not do the quality of work it should do. It may fail to scour, it may not cover trash well, it may ridge the furrows, or fail to pulverize thoroughly. This is not the fault of the plow—the fault lies in the method of hitching. Every plow will not act the same way—you cannot get away from it.

So that you may understand better the tendency of the plow when hitched to the tractor as outlined above take a piece of board, say 12 inches wide by 18 inches long, and drive a nail in the centre at one end. Tie a string to this nail and pull it along the ground—it will pull perfectly straight. Now drive the nail to one side of the centre of the board, say, four inches from one side—attach the string and pull it along—you will note that the board will not pull straight it will swing around until the centre of draft is reached. Now that is the same tendency that takes place in your tractor plow when you hitch beyond the true centre line of draft. The thing that prevents the plow from swinging around in a like manner, is the rear furrow wheel.

Now let us adjust the hitch so that we equalize the off-centre pull by moving the draw-bar of the tractor to the right beyond the centre. This permits reducing the off-centre pull on the plow and partly overcomes the difficulties you encounter in the operation of the plow, but what effect has this on the tractor? It will be plainly seen that this throws more load on one tractor drive wheel than the other. There is a constant side strain on the tractor, the bearings will wear unevenly, the differential will be affected, and the tractor will be hard to steer towards the plowed land. It becomes necessary to guide the tractor slightly away from the plowed land constantly.—The Furrow.

What Newspapers Have to Face

The Peterborough Review, in existence since the early fifties, has ceased publication, not being able to meet the high operating costs. The Examiner has now the daily field to itself in this enterprising Ontario city of twenty thousand. It is only a few weeks ago that the St. Catharines Journal went into liquidation leaving that growing industrial city with only one daily. More than a year ago the St. Thomas Times and Journal, amalgamated as did the Brockville Times and Recorder.

Outside of the larger cities, there are now only left five Ontario cities where two dailies are published. Kingston, Belleville, Guelph, Stratford and Kitchener. Newspaper publishing costs are not nearly so heavy in Eastern Canada as in the West. Out here wages and freight are from fifty to a hundred per cent higher.

With the fifty per cent increase in the cost of newspaper that goes into effect on July 1st, and the addition to postal rates coming into effect later, newspapers throughout the country must increase rates or face heavy losses and probably suspension. Newsprint that cost $40 before the war will now cost $120 a ton and newspaper rates have not increased proportionately to meet the rising costs. Further increases must come if newspapers are to supply the people with the news.

The Premier and Irrigation

This talk of Premier Stewart about being "stamped" by the farmers of Southern Alberta on the irrigation question is unworthy of him and an injustice to the southern community. Mr. Stewart knows very well that no one is trying to "stampede" him, but that the cry that has arisen from Southern Alberta is the cry of worried people, who demand from him the honest efforts of an honest leader instead of the shuffling of a politician. The fact is that anyone who could "stampede" Premier Stewart into doing something for irrigation would deserve a leather medal. Premier Stewart has spoken fair words to people of the south, but has sidestepped this proposition from the very first time it was introduced to him, and the reason is that he is influenced by the political prejudices of two of his own cabinet ministers who have no interest in Southern Alberta, and who would rather see the farmers of the south dry up and blow away in the wind than have anything to do with Mr. Meighen and the Ottawa government.

Thousands of people who have been invited to come and live in this country, and who have been assured of protection and care by the government of Alberta, are facing financial disaster through the negligence of that government. The financial interests of all Southern Alberta are constantly exposed to danger until a practical irrigation policy is inaugurated. A tremendous responsibility rests upon the premier of Alberta in this matter, and he is subordinating that responsibility to political prejudices.

As for the merit of the south country irrigation proposal there can be no question. Actual experience on irrigated lands in the south country demonstrate that one-seventh of their produce at pre-war prices will amply take care of all the capital, with interest and maintenance and operation charges that will accrue. Averages of receipts for the past eleven years from irrigated land in the Coaldale, Raymond and Magrath districts, show that this is a demonstrated fact. From the standpoint of feasibility and financial safety the government has no legitimate excuse for refusing to pledge the credit of the province to the limit on this scheme. It is a much safer bet than railway guarantees that were given by former governments in the north country, as events have shown.

We are accustomed to regard Premier Stewart as an honest man but how can we think of him as honest when he juggles with words as he is doing on this question? With tears in his eyes, he now protests that his government can do no more than the legislature has authorized; but he knows very well that the legislature authorized exactly what he and his cabinet asked it to authorize. He talks of the responsibility of the Dominion government, but evades the responsibility of his own direct promise made last year to a deputation from the south, when he gave them his word that not a shovelful of dirt would be delayed on irrigation work for lack of financial support.

The public has not been playing politics in provincial affairs for some years past, but there has now arisen an issue which will have to be decided at the polls unless Mr. Stewart will decide it in his cabinet. If Mr. Stewart refuses to support the needs of Southern Alberta on this irrigation question he will deserve the united opposition of Southern Alberta, because he will be unworthy to be the premier of an entire province.

Premier Stewart's chance for great usefulness is before him today. Premier Stewart's duty to a section of Alberta's population is before him today. Will Premier Stewart seize his chance and face his duty, or will he continue to quibble with the destinies and even the lives of thousands of Alberta's citizens? This irrigation cry is no "stampede," it is the Macedonian cry, "Come over and help us," and unless the premier stuffs his ears with cotton wool he cannot help but hear it.—Calgary Herald.

HOUSEHOLD CANNING

(From McCall's Magazine)

The importance of the home canning is becoming increasingly recognized, especially in these days of the high cost of living. Every person who has a garden has a surplus of vegetable which usually is wasted, but which, if properly canned and stored away for the winter, would very considerably reduce the household expenses, and at the same time provide a variety when vegetables are scarce. We are giving this week some hints and recipes from McCall's Magazine:

The importance of canning the food as soon as possible after it is picked or gathered, must again be emphasized. The fresher the product, the finer the result and the surer the keeping.

When you are ready to begin work with fruits or vegetables, sort and grade each kind or size and ripeness so that the cans may contain a uniform product. Wash carefully.

Now you have the product ready for blanching and cold dipping. Blanching means the putting of the material in boiling water or placing it in a steamer for a given time; a plunging of the product after it has been blanched into cold water is "cold dipping." These processes also shrink or swell the article so that the filling of the can, always a problem in the past, is easily done. The size of the contents will not change after blanching and cold dipping.

Be sure your jars and covers have been boiled in water. Hold the rubbers in the boiling water for a short time just before putting them on the cans.

Pack the product tight, but allow for circulation of water or syrup. Pour in the boiling water or syrup slip on the wet rubber, then the cover, and put up the bail. Do not snap down the spring until it comes out of the process kettle.

That word "process" has troubled some of us, but the definition of it is simple. It means to cook the food in the cans. The process kettle is whatever utensil you use to do this. Any kettle with a false bottom will answer the purpose—wash boiler, pail or kitchen kettle. Have the water come at least four inches over the cans.

The following easy-to-make device is now used to lift the jars in and out of the process kettle. Simultaneously it keeps in mind the time necessary to cook or "process." Take a white string, slip a baggare tag on it and tie the string together at the ends. Put the double string around the can below the wire, slip the other end and tag through the loop; pull tight. There you have a perfect lifter! On the tag write the time your product goes in, the time it is to come out, and the name, if you are working with more than one kind of fruit or vegetable at a time.

In this way you have a perfect record of your can. The tag may hang down on the side of the wash boiler or kettle, but if you use a gas stove, be careful to keep the tag away from the fire. Another ready device for lifting a can is a long handled button hook—an old friend put to a new use. Always put the can into the kettle quickly, as then there is less danger of breakage.

In blanching and cooking the following table should be used.

	Blanching	Process or cook (boiling)
Tomatoes	1½ Min.	22 Min.
Corn	3 Min.	180 Min.
Beans, waxed	5-10 Min.	120 Min.
Beans, string	5-10 Min.	120 Min.
Cabbage	5-10 Min.	120 Min.
Cauliflower	3 Min.	60 Min.
Carrots	5 Min.	90 Min.
Beets	5 Min.	90 Min.
Lima Beans	5-10 Min.	180 Min.
Peas	5-10 Min.	180 Min.
Spinach	15 Min.	120 Min.
Asparagus	15 Min.	120 Min.
Apples	1½ Min.	20 Min.
Pears	1½ Min.	20 Min.
Peaches	1½ Min.	16 Min.

Do not forget in canning the products with water that one level teaspoonful of salt should be added to every quart and put in just before the jar is covered.

Many people have trouble with beets fading when canning them. The government bulletins suggest leaving an inch of top on the beets and all of the root while blanching, and scraping the skin from the beet, but not peeling them. Pack beets whole if possible. Often the color seems dull when first lifted from the canner but comes back after two or three days.

Sweet Corn

Remove husk and silk. Blanch 5 minutes on cob. Cold-dip; cut corn from cob and pack directly in hot jars or cans (1½ inches of top). Fill with boiling water. Add level teaspoonful salt per quart. Put rubbers and caps on jars into position, not tight. Sterilize for 180 minutes.

Corn seems to give home canners more trouble than do most products; but, with care and study, corn may be canned as easily as any other product grown in the garden. Cut the corn from the cob with a sharp, thin-bladed knife, and pack it at once into sterilized jars. Best results can be obtained when one person cuts the corn from the cob and one person fills the containers. If it is necessary for one person to work alone, she should cut off sufficient corn to fill one jar, pour on boiling water, add salt, place the rubber and cap in position, and put the jar into the canner or hot water at once. Corn expands a little in processing, and for this reason jars should not be filled quite full. Corn should never be allowed to remain in the cold-dip water, and large quantities should not be dipped at one time unless sufficient help is available to handle the product quickly. Water-logged or soaked corn indicates slow and inefficient packing.

When canning sweet corn on the cob, follow same directions but pack whole ears in jars instead of the cut-off corn.

Corn and Tomato Combination

Blanch fresh corn on the cob 5 minutes. Cold-dip quickly. Cut the corn from the cob, cutting from tip to butt. Seal the tomatoes 1½ minutes and cold-dip. Remove the skin and core. Chop tomatoes into medium sized pieces. Mix thoroughly 2 parts of tomatoes with 1 part of corn. Pack the mixture in hot glass jars or enameled tin cans. Add a level teaspoonful of salt per quart. Put rubbers and caps on jars in position, not tight. Sterilize for 120 minutes.

Remove the jars; tighten the covers; invert the jars to cool, and test the joints. Wrap the jars with paper to prevent bleaching.

T. Clarke Writes From Washington

The following is a letter received from Mr. Thos. Clarke, of Rathwell, who is away on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. A. R. Spencer, at Yakima, Washington.

Yakima, Wash., June 21, 1920.

Well, folks:—

We have been having very hot and dry weather here for some time, and today was no exception. We drove out to the top of Look-Out Mountain and had a fine view of the Yakima Valley, with its orchards, fruit farms and fields of alfalfa and other fodder crops. The whole valley from one side to the other and as far as the eye can reach is laid out in plots ranging from about one acre to fifty acres, each field having its irrigation ditches, the main ditches being in some cases of considerable size. The fruit farms here are models of neatness. Many farmers have their orchards seeded down to alfalfa, while others keep weeds down by continual cultivation. The fruit trees so far as I have seen appear to be planted 30 feet apart, and are being irrigated now. Parallel lines of ditches run through the entire orchard, giving the necessary moisture to the trees. Severe cold weather last winter did great damage to the peach trees, many orchards being completely ruined, the trees having to be cut down to mere stumps in many cases. Walnut trees also suffered severely, and cherries this season will be light. The apples and pears are plentiful, fully up to the average. The streets here are lined with splendid shade trees, many of them of great size, especially the soft maple. Honey locust and chestnut trees are now in bloom and roses and other flowers are also in full bloom; and there are beautiful lawns, their owners apparently taking great pride in their possession. Clear, cold water runs down each side of the majority of the streets and the gardens are watered from this source of supply. The cherry trees are a pretty sight just now, laden down with fruit, nearly ripe. There are many splendid public buildings here and the private residences are equal to those in many larger places. Seen from a distance the mountains look like ploughed fields, not a blade of grass anywhere and sparsely covered with a wild sage of a grayish color. Without water this country would be a veritable desert as the rainfall is very light, but there are three large streams, the Yakima, Tieton and Natchez rivers and from these streams the water used in irrigation is drawn.

Norma and I went down to the saw mill a few blocks away the other evening and saw them cutting lumber. There was one large log sawn while we were there which I was told cut up 906 feet of lumber. It sure was some log. The mill cuts about 100,000 feet of lumber in two shifts of eight hours each. Their is also a planing factory, a lath mill and a box factory run in connection. There is a large mill pond covering many acres filled with logs to be sawn. The logs are brought in by train from a point 75 miles distant and it is quite interesting to see them being unloaded with the water falling with quite a roar and splash when they hit.

The men who fought in the civil war of 1865 met in this city last week. They were fine old fellows, nearly all having reached, I should judge, the 70 year old mark. I had a long talk with some of them.

Property here is very high. Much of the improved land is held at from $500 to $1000 per acre and even higher. As $100 in Canadian money is worth but $80 here there are not many Canadian buyers. Land without water is as bad a looking sight as I have ever seen, being light and dry as a bone and in places rocky. I saw a field of wheat on a mountain side yesterday when I was out that was burned yellow and only some six inches high, but that was on ground where the water cannot reach. Without irrigation nothing could exist. Hundreds of people with families have come here from various parts of the country to take a hand in the fruit picking, but in only a few places are they ready to pick yet. We were out on Sunday to a place where the owner expects to have 25 tons of cherries, but were told they had all their pickers engaged. At one or two other places visited the fruit is not yet ripe enough. The season is nearly two weeks later than usual, the spring being backward and cold. We went through a part owned by Jap gardeners yesterday. Peas, beans and white turnips are ready for use and potatoes there were in bloom. As I saw the Japs at work on level land of a nice brown color, with little ditches every 10 or 12 feet running tiny streams of water all over the field I thought of Charley, the Jap, who is trying so hard to work his garden without water. He would be in the height of his glory here. Corn is nearly 2 feet high and we saw a patch of peas in full bloom a good 3 feet high. We passed by a large hop orchard and the hop plants appeared to be about 12 feet long. Scantling is stuck up all over the ground 30 feet apart. Wires are stretched over these and each plant is trained to grow up to the wires. We saw some large patches of grape vines. The apples are growing fast. I see the kids here throwing the fruit at each other. The apples are so plentiful people are paid to thin them out as they are too thick on the trees. People who own orchards spray them four or five times during the season. Two men work together. A large tank is filled with the spray mixture which is forced through a small hose by a small gasoline engine. One man drives the team between the rows of trees while the other sprays the trees thoroughly. A well kept orchard is a pretty sight. The ground is kept cultivated by means of little caterpillar tractors, horses not being able to get close enough to the trees, the branches of even the larger trees growing too low down. Houses for rent are very scarce. Property owners in the town do not want to rent but would rather sell instead as they expect a slump in prices before very long. Families coming here with children are not wanted in the rooming houses and are having a hard time searching for living quarters. In the parks 25 cents a night is charged a man who wants to pitch a tent and he is only allowed to stay one week and then must get out and go elsewhere.

I realize now just what irrigation does for a dry country. This country was a desert for many long years,

To Water & Light Consumers

Your attention is respectfully called to the changes in charges and regulations governing water and light accounts effective from July 1st, 1920, the principal changes are, that bills become due and payable on the 10th of the month.

The discounts on light bills will be discontinued and a premium of 2 cents per K.W.H. will be added if not paid when due.

The discounts on water bills will be discontinued and a premium of 5% will be added if not paid when due.

Up to the present time this year there have been no regulations in force governing the hours of use for lawn hoses. At the present time your pumping equipment is very severely overtaxed due mostly to the extensive use of lawn hoses, with a large number running 24 hours per day, it is impossible to give any kind of service at all to some of our largest consumers. Therefore you are requested to confine your watering to the hours of 7 to 9 in the morning and 7 to 9 in the evening, during this period the plant will run to the limit of its capacity and everyone is asked to take all extra water through these periods.

The days are upon us now when many little household tasks are almost drudgery, there are a large number of electrical appliances which reduce the tasks to almost nothing. When one thinks of a nice fan these warm days, an electric percolator or stove and electric washing machine the thought is suddenly dismissed by the price of current. This, however, need not worry you further, a plan has been worked out whereby your light will cost you 18 cents per K.W.H. and any further consumption above this will cost you only 5 cents per K.W.H., this rate will be explained and granted on application to the Town Office.

The local merchants can supply your needs for anything electrical so therefore, let your slogan this summer be "DO IT ELECTRICALLY!"

VERNON PEARSON,
Superintendent of Water, Light and
Superintendent of Water, Light and Power.

but water has changed parts of it into a veritable garden. Where water can be placed on the land fruit, vegetables, fodder crops, trees, shrubs and flowers grow in luxuriant profusion, but where water can not reach it only sage brush, low and stunted groves, with not even a blade of grass between, and in just such spots may be found that dreaded reptile the rattlesnake. In the bad lands these creatures are said to flourish and are often met with, but in parts settled upon are killed whenever met with and so are very seldom seen.

Flying machines go up nearly every day and from where we are they appear to be flying almost directly overhead, and at a height of perhaps from 2000 to 3000 feet. We saw one go up Sunday evening. It started up within about 30 yards from us.

It is said it never rains here during the summer, with light showers in spring and light snowfall in winter. Certainly the ground does not look as if moisture in any shape ever fell here. From Spokane to Yakima, about 160 miles, a large section of the country is arid and grows only wild sage and is too high above the water to be irrigated. If they had winds here like we have in Alberta, there would be fierce sand storms as the soil appears to be almost pure sand and volcanic ash. If our land in Alberta is ever irrigated there is no reason that I can see why it should not equal this state for grain and fodder growing and even for small fruit raising.

The Ottawa guesser is at it again. Once more he tells us the impression is abroad that Sir Robert Borden will give up the premiership. If the Ottawa guesser is only persistent enough one of these days, or months, or years, he will guess right in the natural course of events.

MOTHER AND SON CURED OF GOITRE

Some 27 years ago I was afflicted with a large Goitre, and had spent hundreds of dollars on it without relief when I saw your advertisement and after using two small jars of Dr. Hayssen's Famous Goitre Ointment I was completely cured. My son was also afflicted; it cured him. Years ago I gave Dr. Hayssen permission to use my name to help in the good work and it still holds good.

Alberta Boys Big Brother

A. W. Forgie has been appointed Boys' Work Secretary for Alberta. Mr. Forgie who was one of the original six 'Y' secretaries to go overseas with the First Contingent will also supervise the town and country department. He is located in Calgary and will devote his whole time to plans for the welfare of town and country boys in the provinces. He is an expert in work for boys and has well earned the title of 'Big Brother.'

'Way back in the prehistoric days Forgie was the first boy to join the Employed Boys' Brotherhood at Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. In 1905 he became associated with Taylor Statten as Assistant Boys' Work Secretary at Toronto Central. As Secretary of the Toronto Boys' Workers' Union, he pioneered the first big co-operative efforts in work for boys.

In 1907 he went to Ottawa as Boys' Work Secretary, later succeeding Taylor Statten in the same capacity as Boys' Work Secretary for Ontario and Quebec. On being invalided home in the fall of 1917 he took charge of the C.S.E.T. work now known as the Trail Rangers and Tuxis Boys. Returning overseas in 1918 he took charge of the Y.M.C.A. military work in England. Latterly he has had charge of Boys' Work at Toronto Central.

Forgie's outstanding characteristics are conservation to boy life, personal interest in individual boys, high sense of honor and devotion to duty, firm convictions regarding the policy of co-operation with the churches and an enthusiastic admiration for the C.S.E.T. program.

Forestry Car to Visit Macleod

The forestry car that is at the present time making a tour of the prairie provinces will arrive in Macleod on Monday, July 26, and will remain for one day, when lectures and demonstrations will be given on tree planting and reforestation. The car will be placed at a convenient spot in the C.P.R. yards and every person should make an effort to go through it and see what has been accomplished at other places and what may be possible here.

More Accommodation Needed

The tide of tourist traffic from the United States through the Canadian Rockies has already begun to rise, on Thursday last at least six heavily laden autos pulled into Macleod from Spokane, stopping in the town over night. If, and it is quite evident that it will, this tourist traffic increases it will soon be necessary to increase our hotel accommodation, especially in the matter of eating facilities. To many it seems a pity that the proprietor of the Queen's Hotel cannot see his way to re-open his splendid dining room, and thus give these tourists a benefit they would greatly appreciate, and which would help the whole town.

As all the ocean going steamers are already booked to their full capacity for months ahead it seems probable that the travel towards the western Rockies will be unprecedented in the history of the country and Macleod is in the happy position of being right on the main road both north and south and east and west, and if proper accommodation is made for our visitors the town will undoubtedly reap its full share of the patronage these tourists bring with them.

Irrigation in Southern Alberta is quite as important to Calgary as to the farmers directly interested. In their efforts to induce the Alberta government to give the assistance necessary to initiate the project at once, the southerners should have the active support of all Calgary business men.

Picking Out the Laying Hen

Through the efforts of Mr. Hugh Mackintosh and under the auspices of the Macleod Agricultural Society, a meeting was held in the Town Hall on Saturday afternoon, when a lecture upon the development of the poultry industry was given by Mr. T. T. Clyde of Edmonton. In the course of his lecture Mr. Clyde said that if the poultry products of the country could be raised one half it would increase the revenue from that one industry alone by $72,000,000, and with a little extra care and attention it is easily possible to accomplish this.

The farmer should endeavor to take care of his flock as would make for greater egg production during the winter, by culling the non-layers and by proper feeding. He himself bought about 50 hens from a neighbor in the middle of December; he culled them down till he had 21, and these 21 hens from the 15th of December until the 13th of March produced $83.00 worth of eggs at a cost of $13.75 for feed. The three essentials to egg production are food and water, fresh air, and sunlight. One of the finest feeds for winter egg production is sprouted oats, one bushel of dry oats will produce three bushels of sprouted oats and will furnish the hens with a good supply of succulent food. They should also always have before them a dry mash consisting of equal parts of bran, shorts, and oat chop with 1 pound of beef scrap to every 10 lbs of mash. The hen should have lots of water and plenty of fresh air, and a clean place to live in. Under these conditions there is no reason why, with the non-layers culled out the farmers' flock should not average 200 eggs per hen.

With two hens as a demonstration Mr. Clyde pointed out the difference between a non-layer and a layer, which difference, he said, relates to the construction, condition and vitality of the individual birds. The layer should have light and supple pelvic bones, be in good physical condition and have lots of vitality. The quiet, old hen is never a good egg layer.

Mr. Clyde is remaining in the district and is prepared to visit any person desirous of his services and give advice concerning the flock culling the non-layers, free of charge, as he is being sent out by the Department of Agriculture. While he is in the district he may be found through Mr. R. J. E. Gardiner.

EWELME

We have been too busy to send contributions to your paper the past few weeks. There has been considerable going on, but, that will have to pass.

We are pleased to report crops looking good, in fact, there are some crops here that cannot be beaten, crops that will go from 20 to 30 bushels per acre without further rain—just imagine if we could only get a two days rain.

The irrigation surveyors have completed their work in this district and have moved to a spot six or seven miles from Macleod.

Murphy Bros. took a bunch of cattle to their lease in the foot hills the other day.

Not for many years have we seen such grass as at the present, it is knee-deep in lots of places.

We notice that the government engine and grader still stand in a field at Ardenville. We do hope that our local representative will make an effort to have the outfit make the return trip to Macleod, taking the other side of the road. We shall then have a good road to town for the winter.

We read with interest the speeches that were delivered at Lethbridge on how to prevent soil drifting. Mr. Murray in his address laid great stress on the necessity of having moisture—he might have said that the surest way of getting moisture was from the rivers.

It is very strange but quite marked that the districts so badly hit by the wind are those that would be covered by the proposed irrigation canal—no stone should be left unturned to secure the water for these districts.

What would you say of a dry goods merchant (who depends on his stock of drygoods to make his living) advertising hardware. I suppose the same remarks would apply to a farmer that is raising horses as part of his living but does his farming with a tractor.

"Evangeline"

Six-Reel Fox Production of Famous Longfellow Poem Reveals Unsuspected Drama

(Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.) The reviewer in watching this six-reel Fox screen portrayal of "Evangeline" could not help wondering what the gentle, gray-haired poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow would have thought could he have seen it. For besides the exquisite poetical flavor of the original and a surprising fidelity to the times and characters depicted, the adapters have wrought out of this beautiful, sonorous poem, which every school child knows, a surprising amount of real drama. It quickens the heart and suffuses the eyes with tears in numerous places. And this drama, it may be added, is attained without any apparent striving. The lulling quality of Longfellow's lines seems almost to have hidden the intense feeling in the depths of the narrative.

From a scenic standpoint this production is sublime. It drops the spectator gently in the "forest primeval" and leads him into a fairyland of surpassing beauty. The village of Grand Pre is revealed to him, lying in its quiet vale, surrounded by charming pastoral scenes. The characterizations are excellent—Benedict Bellefontaine, Father Felician, Basil the blacksmith, and his strapping son, Gabriel, are all portrayed to the life. And Evangeline herself is beautifully portrayed by Miriam Cooper, who visualizes in form and features the chaste purity of the girl. The supporting cast is unusually large.

The original poem is quoted frequently and often single lines have been utilized to bring out striking effects, such as "When she passed it was like the ceasing of exquisite music." The adapters must be given credit for accomplishing a rarely artistic thing in this screen production. It is certain to have tremendous appeal in picture houses and will make a fine addition to the film libraries of schools and colleges. Empress Monday and Tuesday, July 5 and 6.

ECONOMY

A negro came into a Southern ticket office and asked for two round trip tickets to Charleston. The agent knew him and asked who was going with him.

"My brother," said the negro.

"Your brother?" asked the agent.

"Where is he?"

"Out there in a box. He's dead," answered the negro.

"Well, if he's dead you don't want a return ticket for him."

"Yes, sah," said the negro; "you see we ain't going to bury him in Charleston; but we have about forty kinfolks down there, and we reasoned that it would be cheaper to carry him down to Charleston for de funeral service and bring him back, than bring all the family up here."

REBUFFED

A Dutch pastor makes it a point to welcome any strangers cordially, and one evening he hurried down the aisle to station himself at the door. A Swedish girl was one of the strangers in the congregation. She is employed as a domestic in one of the fashionable homes, and the minister, noting that she was a stranger, stretched out his hand.

He welcomed her to the church and expressed the hope that she would be a regular attendant. Finally he said that if she would be at home some evening during the week he would call.

"Thank you," she murmured bashfully, "but Ay have a fella."

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Crops in the Ewelm district are in excellent condition.

Mrs. J. D. Matheson will not receive again this season.

Mrs. H. H. McLean, 20th Street, will not receive again this season.

Miss Hughes, entertained the children of her class, Grade III., on Monday.

Miss Beeres, of the public school, entertained the children of her primary class on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Macleod and Mr. Miles, the district engineer for the C.P.R., were visitors in Macleod on Wednesday, on official business.

Mr. John Stewart, chief engineer of the McLaren Lumber Co.'s saw mill, is fitting up one of the houses on the flat as an office.

When J. B. Sutherland is approached on the subject of the mill construction he just smiles and looks wise. He's very diplomatic these days.

Mrs. M. J. Macdonald and her daughter, Miss Winnifred, returned to Macleod on Saturday from a visit to Havre, Mont., and other western American points.

Mr. Foster, representing large concrete contracting interests in the city of New York and now handling contracts for the C.P.R., was in Macleod on Wednesday last.

In connection with the provincial elections in the province of Manitoba there were 150 nominations for 51 seats, representing 12 different "parties" or interests.

The Farmers' Co-Operative Garage is putting a concrete floor in the storage part of their garage, and are making full provision to take care of the tourist traffic that has already started, especially from the United States.

The W.M.S. of the Methodist Church held a social evening on Tuesday at the parsonage, when a report was given of the annual convention held recently in Edmonton. This report was given by Mrs. F. A. Adams, the delegate from Macleod, after which refreshments were served and terminated a very profitable and enjoyable evening.

Mrs. W. A. Gordon entertained at tea on Tuesday, a few friends who gathered to wish good-bye to Miss S. Kydd, the popular teacher of the Macleod High School, who is resigning her position this year. Among those present were Mesdames Struthers, (Rev.) Kennedy, Tripp, McNay, Russell, H. H. McLean, Barker, A. D. Ferguson, Matheson, Swinerton, Leather, Gardiner and Reid, and the Misses Muir, Hodnett, Henry and Patterson.

Jottings From the Public School

Miss Wilma Hughes, of the Public School Staff, has accepted a position at Lloydminster for next term.

The High School pupils finished their examinations on Tuesday evening with a paper in French.

Miss Eva S. Roberts, who has been one of the most efficient teachers on the Public School staff during the past two years, has definitely decided to return East. She will be much missed on the school staff as she has proven highly successful in her work, while her popularity among her pupils was unbounded.

A good many new faces will be found on the staff next term as to date only two of the present teachers have signified their intention of remaining.

The sports day at the exhibition grounds on July 1st will be well attended by the school children judging from the entries received for the various races. Among other events an exhibition basketball game will be staged between two teams representing the High School.

Much work has been prepared for the School Fair, to be held in September.

School closed on Wednesday, June 30th for the summer holidays. With grades VIII, IX, and X away since the 18th and the falling off in attendance due to the near approach of the holidays, the school presented an end-of-the-term appearance.

Miss Beers intends spending her summer holidays at Pentteton, B.C. It is to be hoped that when September returns she will be found once again in charge of the primary department.

Cadet inspection, which should have taken place on June 23rd was postponed until September owing to the departmental examinations being in progress.

NOT A MASTERPIECE

A Scotch laboring man, who had married a rich widow, exceptional for her plainness, was accosted by his employer.

"Weel, Thomas," he said, "I hear you are married. What sort of a wife have you got?"

"Weel, sir" was the response, "She's the Lord's handiwork, but I canna say she's His masterpiece."

EVANGELINE

LONGFELLOWS IMMORTAL POEM OF ACADIA

THE SWEETEST AND MOST EXALTED LOVE EPIC EVER WRITTEN, AND NOW TRANSFERRED TO THE SCREEN IN ALL ITS BEAUTY AND SUBLIMITY, BY THE MASTER PRODUCER, WILLIAM FOX, WHO GAVE US "CLEOPATRA" AND "LES MISERABLES."

Empress Theatre July 5-6
Monday and Tuesday

MIRIAM COOPER AS "EVANGELINE"

Here is a picture that should be seen by everyone in Macleod. In addition to being one of the most compelling love epics ever written it also is of considerable historical value, dealing with the very earliest days of the provinces on the eastern coast of Canada. Almost everyone has read the beautiful poem by Longfellow and the screen version follows very closely the original manuscript of Longfellow's.

This picture has only recently been released in Western Canada and on account of the nature of this production is one of the most expensive films brought to Macleod. In spite of this and in order to give practically everyone the opportunity of seeing it the prices of admission will be fixed at the lowest possible level, viz.:

ADULTS ONLY 35c -- -- -- CHILDREN 15c

A picture we should charge at least fifty cents for.
